

Press release, Berlin, August 2005

The d.velop AG

The d.velop AG, headquartered in Gescher (Westphalia), is the sponsor of the prize, which is named after the company. d.velop is the leading supplier of innovative solutions in the area of digital business process optimisation on the basis of the integral archive-, document-, and workflow management system d.3. Since its foundation in 1992, the d.velop AG has been optimising the document-based processes of its clients through products that are independent of specific branches of trade.

The current core product d.3 comprises the three systems digital archivisation, document management, and workflow management. d.3 has been installed all around the world, amongst others with the following clients: Hülsta, Iveco, Kühne & Nagel, Siemens ICN, Siemens ICM and the university clinic Tübingen. Today more than 40 partners participate globally in the d.velop competence network. Always keeping in mind the company's motto „we d.velop your digital business“, more than 160 experts in the d.velop competence network support companies in Europe that are implementing optimisations of digital processes. More than 600 d.3 systems with more than 350,000 users are operating successfully around the globe.

The enthusiasm of the d.velop associates for finding ever new possibilities for optimising business processes through intelligently designed IT-applications is the driving force behind the company's success. In doing so, d.velop pursues innovative strategies. For only through leaving the well-trodden paths does one achieve the potential for continuous improvement. In this quest it is only logical now also to engage with the the aesthetic and artistic possibilities of modern computer technology.